

How do I know if I need an adjustable panhard bar?

Normally, if you will be running the stock rear end and will not be lowering your ride height then you do not "need" an adjustable panhard bar. If you plan to lower your ride height and/or install an aftermarket rear end then we suggest getting an adjustable panhard bar to allow you to properly center your rear end laterally in the car.

<https://www.spohn.net/support/questions/15/>