Your upper a-arm cross shafts are offset, can I flip them to change my front end alignment?

Our upper a-arm cross shafts are offset so you can flip them depending on your front end alignment needs. They ship to you set with the cross shafts installed with the "wheel side" marking facing the wheel, this gives the same geometry as stock. If you need more alignment, simply flip the cross shaft so the "wheel side" is facing towards the engine bay.
